There was a large and appreciative audience out again Tuesday night and the outlook is for large patronage throughout the week. Ladies are admitted free each night under the usual conditions.

Vaudeville at the Phillips.

Neither the heat nor the counter attractions are sufficient to keep the public away from the vaudeville bill that is running at the New Phillips this week, as the audience of Tuesday night was again large and appreciative. The bill, as stated in these columns, has been found of a most pleasing nature and well worthy of patronage, even in mid-summer. There is such a diversity in the numbers that one cannot fail to find something to please him.

Let us eat, drink and be merry.
With never a thought of ache or pain.

RAIN SPOILED OUTINGS

Elements Tuesday Night Were Very Fickle.

IMPROMPTU SHOWER BATH

The rain of Tuesday night was unpleasant for one reason more than any other. It "soaked" a number of picnickers and young people who were out driving. The beauty of the day did not bespeak rain by any means and a large number of persons took advantage of what looked to be a fine night for an evening outing. All was well till about eight o'clock in the evening when, just as the moon was getting ready to add a touch of sentiment to the out doors, the rain began to fall. For a time the clouds fairly spilled their contents and then as if to coax the young folks to stay out longer, the moon broke from behind black clouds and shone brilliantly. This lasted but a short time when again the rain fell in greater volume than ever with the result that many were given an impromptu shower bath.

WORK THAT TELLS.

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here in Richmond.

Cures that last are cures that tell. To thoroughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate the cures and see if they prove permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Richmond. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, kidney and urinary disorders, now declare that relief was permanent and the cure perfect. How can any Richmond sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Dallas Cassel, employed at the Starr Piano Factory, and living at 711 South Eighth street, Richmond, Ind., says: "I think it was about fifteen years ago that I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. At that time I was working for the Richmond Casket Company and in the course of a hard day's work had quite a bit of heavy lifting which brought on severe backache and dizzy headaches. I had tried several remedies but with no effect. Finally I was induced to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at A. G. Luken & Co's drug store. After I had taken them for a short time the dull aching in my back disappeared and with it the headaches. Since that time I have not been troubled, and have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many other sufferers." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Almost anything may be true about a boy. "I used to go to school," says W. B. Forbush, in "The Broadening Path," "with a boy who would eat a fly for a cent. A nickel was his price for beetles. I also went to school with a boy who wrote poetry. It was the same boy."

ORIGINAL GOTHAM.

The Scheme by Which Its Inhabitants Fooled King John.

This name Gotham, was first applied to the city of Manhattan in a book of humorous sketches called "Salmagundi," written about 1807 by Washington Irving in collaboration with his brother Peter and the poet Paulding. It was evidently intended to suggest that the people of New York made undue pretensions to wisdom, and that there were both satire and wit in the suggestion is shown by the story of the original Gothamites. Gotham was a parish in Nottinghamshire, England. The old story tells how King John wished to pass through the parish, but the people there, fancying that the passage of the king over a route made it a public road, decided to prevent the transit by all pretending to be crazy. Therefore when the king and his party arrived they found every one of the inhabitants employed in some peculiarly foolish task. Thus a group were joining hands around a thorn bush to keep a cuckoo from getting away, some were trying to drown an eel, others dipping water with a sieve, and so on. When the king saw these performances, he swore at the people for a pack of idiots and, turning, departed with all his retinue, says the Housekeeper. The Gothamites were delighted with the success of their scheme for turning aside the king, regarding it as superlatively clever.

After this Gotham came to have the reputation of being a sort of headquarters for conceited fools. In the time of Henry VIII. a book entitled "The Merry Tales of the Mad Men of Gotham" was published. Among these was the story of the "Three Wise Men of Gotham," one of whose exploits was to go to sea in a bowl.

"A Tempest in a Teapot."

The expression "a tempest in a teapot" is one of great antiquity. Its first historic appearance is in the "De Legibus" of Cicero, who quotes it as a common saying. "Gratidius raised a tempest in a ladle, as the saying is." The French form, "Une tempeste dans une verre d'eau" (a tempest in a glass of water), was first applied to the disturbances in the Geneva republic near the end of the seventeenth century. In England the word "teapot" was substituted for the sake of alliteration. It is said to have been popularized by Lord North, who employed it to characterize the outbreak of the American colonists against the tax on tea.—Boston Post.

His Slim Chance.

"You can answer me one more question perhaps, Miss Bute," said Archie, mortified at her refusal. "Is there any other man?"

"There is every other man, sir," she responded, with flashing eyes. "You would be absolutely the last, Mr. Featherston."

As there appeared to be no further business before the house, Archie hastily adjourned without form.—Chicago Tribune.

Her Bread.

"Mean thing!" exclaimed Mrs. Newlied. "It's just brutal of you to call it 'this stuff.' You said you'd be glad if I baked my own bread."

"Yes, dear," replied the great brute, "but I didn't say I wanted you to bake mine."—Philadelphia Press.
